FAST SWIMMING FEAT.

Chicago Man Clips a Second from the American Record.

Chicago, March 12.—Walter J. Smith, a young swimmer, 18 years of age, created a new American record Wednesday in the tank of the Chicago Athletic association. It was in the quarter-mile race, an open contest, one of three, at different distances, for the honor of championship of the Central Association of Amateur Athletes association.

Blum's time, 6:23 2/5, is exactly one second faster than any time done before in this country. The previous record is that of A. T. Kenney, of Philadelphia, the former Australian swimmer, who, during the World's Fair, beat all the best men in the country in the lagoon in Jackson park.

Five telegrams were destroyed and a bridge burned by raiders in Bath County Tuesday night. County Judge Ramsey declines to appoint guards because the provisions of the constitution have not been complied with by the turnpike companies.

SATURDAY, MAR. 12, 1898

SENATOR GOEBEL will discover, when he shall have secured the gubernatorial nomination next year on the Democratic ticket; that the people believe in fair play, that a free ballot and a fair count are the dearest political rights that a Kentuckian claims.

In order to make the Goebel Force bill law a success, the Democrats should elect three commissioners whose chief characteristic is dare-devil nerve. It will take reckless and fearless men to return fraudulent counts of election returns under the operation of that law.

M'KINLEY'S FIRST YEAR.

The first year of the term of President McKinley has ended. Can any reader recall a presidential administration in which as large a number of promises made have been fulfilled in a single year? There was a promise of improvement in business, and business has improved. There was a promise that the financial integrity of the country would be maintained and that more currency would be put into circulation and this has been done. There was a promise that a new tariff law would be enacted and the receipts of the Treasury made to meet the expenditures and this promise has been carried out. There was a further promise that under this new tariff law industries would be revived, and this is apparent in the large number of reports of new manufacturing establishments and increased wages paid by old ones. It was promised that this increased activity would bring to the three state commissioners. It takes but little thought to see how great power is thus placed in the hands of a partisan board, and it can readily be seen that the elections now depend entirely on the counters and not on the voters.

The Goebel Election bill became a law over the Governor's veto. The party of conspirators now in control of affairs at Frankfort, maddened by the defeat of 1896, and hoping by force, chicanery and fraud to prevent their faction from falling into a minority, have adopted this revolutionary measure. The vote of the state has been placed in the keeping of a vengeful lot of political mercenaries, who will not falter at any baseness demasqued of them by their masters. Even if such a law would be administered by saints or angels, it is yet so antagonistic to every principle of a free vote and a fair count that it should not prevail. The passage of this law so far as its political operations are concerned should not be a complaint of Republicans. There is no doubt this infamous proceeding will awaken the resentment of every honest man in the state and that he will vote to overthrow the party which enacted and supports it, and defeat its candidates. Free silver Republicans will rally to the old party at the call of a free ballot and a fair count.

Democrats tired of certain politicians and cliques will vote for any party to stamp their indignation on machine politics and machine politicians. As it stands patent to all the world today there is but one hope for the people of the state and that is the Republican party led by its best men.

TODAY is an auspicious time to consider the street sprinkling question. Nature is attending to it now, and hence the Mayor and the Council can give the question no further consideration. It is necessary to speak of the disagreeable features of a day when the air is full of biting sand and penetrating dust. The question before the council is not whether the streets shall be sprinkled; there is, of course, no division of opinion on that point. But the question is, how to secure the greatest results from the least expenditure of money. If the individual owner sprinkles the street fronting on his property, he must pay for the privilege. His neighbor, however, may not go to that expense, and hence the one who does sprinkle is still annoyed with dust. He spends his money but gets insufficient returns. To avoid this inequality or injustice, the council should have the most frequented streets sprinkled under the management of the street committee or some other council committee. The cost can be assessed upon all lot owners proportionately to their frontage.

By this means, the one who has been accustomed to pay for the sprinkling privilege will not have to pay as much as before, while his neighbor, who has refused to contribute his share to the comfort of the neighborhood and the pleasure of the public, will be compelled to do so. This is a just and equitable arrangement.

It is a fact that the one who has seeking public, will have to pay his share like all the rest. This is but fair and equitable. It is not only a place to promote public comfort, but the general health of the public as well.

THE HERO OF HAVANA.

An Eloquent Estimate of General Fitzhugh Lee by Major D. W. Sanders.

At the opera house in Jeffersonville, Ind., last Friday evening, Major D. W. Sanders, by special invitation of the ladies of the G. A. R. Relief corps and Mayor Whitesides, spoke before an enthusiastic and overjoyed audience for the benefit of the charity fund of the corps, the subject being "Grant and His Campaigns." The great characters of that epoch, from Lincoln to Lee, were vividly, reverently and eloquently sketched. Concluding his masterful address, Maj. Sanders spoke touching as follows:

"And I desire to say tonight, as a confederate soldier, that in the history of all wars, where people organized armies, established a provisional government, and attempted to overthrow the constitutional authorities, there would be greater activity among railroads, which employ such vast numbers of people. This promise has been redeemed. The earnings of thirty principal railroads, which in the month of February 1897, were twelve and a quarter millions, were, in February, 1898, $13,700,000. The money in circulation has increased more than fifty million dollars and the gold in circulation has increased $37,000,000.

Wheat has advanced, corn has advanced, rye and barley have advanced, so have oats and butter and wool; in fact everything that the farmer produced. The only article which has fallen is silver. The President and his party took the most prompt means possible to redeem the pledges of the party with reference to this question by sending a commission to the great nations of Europe, asking their co-operation looking to the restoration of silver to its former standard, the preliminary steps for this action having been taken even before the inauguration of President McKinley. That position was declined and it now remains to determine what future steps can be taken in that line, and whatever can be done to that end will be in other matters outside of business the dignity and honor of the country have been maintained. Every American citizen confined in Cuban prisons has been released. The promise of prompt action in regard to Hawaiian annexation has been kept by the President and his associates, and final action is only delayed by a Senate controlled by those opposed to the President and his party.

Last evening at the Longfellow building the teachers held a very interesting meeting, the subject of conversation and discussion being James Russell Lowell.

If the reports are true Sam Clark, the man who fatally shot Mr. Carney, of this city, last week, is said to be rapidly losing his mind.

Yesterday afternoon several young ladies were driving on the Broadway road, just past Dr. Caldwell's, when a runaway horse attached to a light wagon came tearing up behind them and frightened their horse, and they fled for their presence of mind they might have been seriously injured.

The belts that the ladies are wearing now furnish food for thought as well as comments. It seems as if each one is trying to get one just a little prettier than their neighbors; and, really, many very pretty ones are seen, with their dainty chokers hanging from them. Some are very expensive, while others are inexpensive and pretty as well, so that every one is able to have one of these novelties. This spring a dainty shirt waist, stylish skirt, jaunty sailor hat and a pretty fancy belt will constitute the costume of a well-dressed girl in the morning. And then, too, these belts can be worn in the afternoon and evening with your summer muslin and organdy. So it has become not only a convenience, but almost a necessity for all the girls to have one or more belts.

Permit me to say that while Gen. Lee is an ex-confederate soldier, yet, if this country, with its great conservatism, its absolute caution, should determine that the pending difficulties with Spain can be solved only in a declaration of war against that power, then, in that event, the administration will be enthusiastically and heroically supported by the soldier population of the South to maintain our flag, whatever it may be carried, and to give life and bright manhood in defense of our government. If a resort to arms be called, the old confederate soldier in the South, with their armies all vanished and their flags forever furled, and the dust of civil war laid forever, will all rally to the support of the flag of our common country, and no better or truer man will be found to lead under the colors of the United States than Gen. Fitzhugh Lee."

morrow. All members requested to

The next time I was so impatient as to stay out, it was winter.
My mother-in-law, being very corpulent,
slept in the hall, and I knew if I went in that way I would certainly get caught. Realizing that my only hope was to get in the back way, whether I directed my steps. But I was locked out. I decided I'd stay in the stable, and went into the loft
to sleep in the hay. The only thing that kept me from freezing to death was my dog. I took them up and made them lay across me for cover."

An exchange deplores the sad reformation evidenced in school books of the present time. When he went to school, the first readers contain lessons something like this:

"See the cow. Is not the cow nice? Can the cow run? Yes, the cow can run. Can the cow run as fast as the horse?" But the in-up-to-date style of reading it by the average kid is as follows: "Get out the cow. Isn't she a beauty? Sure, she's a cow. Can the cow git a move on herself? You let her can git a move on herself. Can she hump it like de horse? Nit, she ain't in it wid de horse."

Capt. Len Rouse, who is in Texas
for his health, wrote Engineer Joe Flaeh the other day that they were organizing a regiment of cripples in El Paso. They have selected these men so they can't run in case
of war with Spain, he can't say.

Mr. Flaeh wrote back that Massachusetts, Illinois, was engaged in a still more novel scheme—that of organizing a company of blind men.
When Mr. Rouse writes back to inquire why they want blind men in a military company, Mr. Flaeh will reply that it is done in order that in case of a battle with Spaniards, they will not be able to see how many of themselves are killed and beat a retreat through fright.

McCracken conveys, according to reports from friends, probably cannot have the most one gene-families in the state. Many of them are through poverty, and there are a few who have not begun. The rain of today and last night was a pleasant surprise to them. Good trips are expected this year.

Clerk Patterson yesterday found
the long lured for record known as "Cemetery Cook," a very valuable volume which had been lost for about two years. Mr. Patterson obtained information from the council to search through some old books on the vault, and there found it. Clerk Another Cole claimed the book was never there during his incumbency,
but was mistaken, as it has entries
made by himself.

A JUDGE'S SUDDEN DEATH.

He Was Stricken in Church—A Striking Lesson to Those Who Neglect Timely Warning.

A learned judge was taken suddenly ill in church, December 5, 1897, in the city of Brooklyn. Four days later, in spite of the best medical aid, he died. The doctors said the judge had kidney disease and had lived a surprisingly long time, everything considered.

A man or woman may live along for years with incompetent kidneys only to collapse as suddenly as a house of cards when the baby's hand knocks it over. The early indications of Bright's disease are sometimes very slight—headaches, dull pains, depressed feelings, lack of energy—all these indicate the first stages of Bright's disease, and very few people think they mean anything serious until, often, it is too late.

There has never been one discovery known to the world, and the medical profession for checking Bright's disease in its beginning or curing it after it has progressed. That discovery, which is so popular in Europe, America and throughout the world, is Warner's Safe Cure.

If the learned judge, had realized years before the secret power that was undermining his life, he might have counteracted it and lived to a green old age.

But he did not know!

And still there are thousands of people today who are upon the same dangerous road, and who do not realize it.

FOUR BAD BOYS BREAK SEWER PIPE.

Four Warrants—Three Arrested This Morning—Deliberately Broke the Pipe With a Hammer.

Lou Moss and Robert Carson Fined For Immorality and Warranted For Perjury.

The diversion to which a number of small boys, and large ones, too, have lately become addicted in various parts of the city, in breaking up sewer pipe joints, must be stopped. The attention of the police has been called to it and this morning Officer Fred Hoyer arrested Sydney and Boone Greer and Carl Pruitt, the oldest of whom is eleven years old, and the youngest, Pruitt, who is the only white one, eight years old. The boys are charged with deliberately ruining many joints of pipe by breaking them with a large railroad hammer and building fires in them.

The boys claimed that given Greer, who was not arrested, was the guilty one, but did the hammer, although they did not see him break the pipes. Pruitt said they passed a pipe that had a fire in it and he threw some paper into it, but did nothing else. The case was left open until Monday.

Judge Sanders said he intended to find the guilty boy or boys, no matter if he wasn't but six years old, for the best way to teach boys who "do not know any better," is to fine them. If they know better, such malicious mischief will not be allowed to go unpunished.

Lou Moss and Robert Carson, colored, were charged with a misdemeanor this morning which would have cost them $25 or $30; now the penitentiary stares them in the face. But to get out of this, it is alleged they swore a lie. They were charged with immorality, and both swore emphatically that they had never lived together in Paducah, while two other witnesses swore positively that they had, and one of these witnesses was the Miss woman's own sister. They were fined $20 and costs each, and committed to prison on a charge of false swearing, for which they will be tried tomorrow.

The Miss woman admitted that she and Carson lived together in Cairo. She has a very unsavory reputation, having served a term or two in the Nashville penitentiary. She escaped twice and was recaptured here each time.
